Dear Harold,

I am awfully sorry that you have been not well. It really sounds like you had a rough time of it, and I'm glad you are better.

I have passed along your requests to Sissi, and I believe you can count on her cooperation.

Thank you for the bcc of yours to Marina.
In all honesty, I suspect that one reason you hear nothing is that she probably has trouble sitting down and writing a letter. And I gather she does not have a lawyer. I will, though, be interested in anything you hear from her that you feel you could pass along.

I have been hopelessly (!?) involved in Chapter Nine for more than a month. I hope to finish it finally within the coming week. I will be terribly grateful, of course, if you can find time to read it for me.

With every good wish from me and the staff at the News & Gossip, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Hen.
